DEMOCRATIC FILIBUSTER BLOCKS REPUBLICANS TEMPORARILY FROM FULL CONTROL OF THE CONGRESS

Barring of Senator Bilbo Shatters All Precedents By Keeping Ruling Party Out of Power in Senate

By William Theis

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(INS)—A Democratic filibuster in the Senate against the barring of Sen. Theodore Bilbo (D) Miss., today blocked the Republicans temporarily from assuming full control of the 80th Congress.

The Bilbo affair shattered all precedents by keeping the ruling party out of power in the Senate.

The Democrats remained in technical control, 31 to 29, due to their numerical superiority among hold-over senators. A Democrat, Secretary Leslie Biffle, presided.

Out of 37 newly-elected senators only one—Baldwin (R) Conn.—was seated before the Bilbo battle began.

The Senate twice voted to bar Bilbo from being sworn in for a third six-year term. On one vote ten Democrats voted against Bilbo; on the other, eleven. There were a few shifts among the Democrats with the result that 12 voted against him on one of the other votes.

In retaliation, a determined group of Bilbo's Democratic friends filibustered to block Republican organization of the Senate. They prevented the swearing in of all other newly-elected senators. As a result, the Republicans have not yet taken over control of the Senate.

There was no untoward incident as the GOP took over control of the House. Rep. Joseph Martin, Massachusetts, was elected speaker. He pledged tax reductions and control of labor legislation. A bill was promptly introduced to slash income taxes by 20 per cent.

In the Senate, Republican leaders forced a Saturday session. They threatened to force a continuous day and night session of the Senate starting Monday if Bilbo's friends do not haul up the white flag.

Official parliamentarians scoffed at some Republican claims that the Senate was "unorganized" and that President Truman might be forced to postpone his Monday address to Congress on the state of the Union. They asserted the Senate could vote at any time to join the House to hear Mr. Truman speak on Monday.

Senate Parliamentarian, Charles L. Watkins, said:

"The Senate is a continuing body. It is already organized. It now has sixty members and a quorum of 31 of them can do as much business as 49 of the usual 96."

The Senate Monday can approve a concurrent resolution to meet with the House to hear the President. It has ample authority. It has the same authority, with sixty members attending, to vote to hear the President as it has to vote to seat or bar Bilbo."

Southern Democrats fighting for immediate seating of Bilbo blocked the swearing in of 22 Republicans and 14 Democrats.

Only one—Sen. Raymond E. Baldwin (R) Conn.—received the oath before the Bilbo battle broke out.

Democrats and Republicans both called meetings this morning to plan future strategy.

Southern Democrats threatened to "talk at length" in an effort to force GOP members to seat Bilbo and then proceed to consider the charges against him.

"The Man" from Mississippi, veteran of many a political battle, is accused in two committee reports of racial intimidation and of "improperly using" his Senatorship for "personal gain" from war contractors.

Republican leaders, promising to meet the "filibuster" with continuous sessions, rejected an initial compromise proposal by Senator Barkley (D), Ky., serving his last hitch as majority leader.

Barkley suggested that Bilbo be seated without prejudice and the charges against him be heard by the new Senate Rules Committee, with a report to be made by January 17.

FIRE WASTE IS AT ITS HIGHEST PEAK

From 1940 to 1944 There Was An Increase of 35%, Record Shows

24.5 INCREASE IN 1946

By International News Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—(INS)—National fire waste in 1946 has been increasing at the highest rate in history. Loss of life, too, is appalling. Deaths in "confagation" in 1944 were 35 per cent more than in 1940, according to latest available U. S. Census figures.

For the first ten months of last year our national fire waste was $558,687,000 or 24.5 per cent higher than the same period in 1945. This ten-month total is higher than any full year total in any year from 1930 to 1945.

If the same rate of increase in losses prevails for the last two months of 1946, this year will be the most wasteful in our history, with a total of $566,441,335 in useful property burned.

This will be the highest annual total ever known, exceeding 1926, when national fire waste was $561,980,751. In 1925 the figure was $559,418,184.

March, 1946, with fire waste of $53,252,000 was the highest single month recorded since the National Board of Fire Underwriters began estimating monthly losses in 1929.

If annual totals in these post-war days should continue to follow the trend of the period after World War I, fire destruction in 1953 would run around a billion dollars of property value.

Number of fires in New York City increased by nearly one-third in the first nine months of 1946, according to Fire Commissioner Quayle. In nine months of 1946, number of fires was 31,316 compared with 23,759 in nine months of 1945—an increase of 32 per cent.

Number of fires in Illinois in the year ending June 30, 1946, was 12 per cent higher than the preceding year. There were 15,935 fires, an increase of 1,760. Property loss outside Chicago increased 38 per cent. Deaths from fire were 377, an increase of 136. These figures are from the State Fire Marshal.

In Chicago, fire alarms were up 22.8 per cent for the first eight months of 1946. Eight thousand one hundred and forty-three alarms involving losses were reported, compared with 6,635 in the same period in 1945.

Approximately three out of four fires, of known causes, fall in four main groups involving human carelessness, negligence, inattention or plain accident. Experts believe that nine out of ten fires in these categories could be prevented by good housekeeping and cultivation of habits of caution and watchfulness.

WHAT IS WORK?

Further examination of the proceedings leading to the United States Supreme Court decision on which labor unions are basing suits for billions in overtime pay only adds to the confusion. There is confusion not only about what has been decided, but what may be decided if the ruling sticks.

The Poltoratsky description is propaganda—blatantly so; and unfriendly, mischievous propaganda at that. Like all skillful propaganda it is not so much a misstatement of facts as a misinterpretation and mis-emphasis of them.

Much of New York is dirty; that is true. But why should that be presented to the Russian people as the outstanding characteristic of the largest American city? Only to keep alive a most ill-founded belief in the Russian mind that they are far better off, in their privations and servitude, than are Americans enjoying the highest standards of living in all the world under what the Russians call the "capitalistic" concept.

The hand of bias shows itself most clearly in other phases of the Poltoratsky articles. He dwells, for example, on the popularity of "slot-machine" palaces as though they were typical of American methods of finding pleasure; and reads a hidden desire to crush the world into the fact that some of the penny and nickel devices are named "How to Drop an Atomic Bomb" and "Bring the Plane Down."

An incident in connection with buying a pair of trousers, in which he had to hire a tailor to turn up the cuffs because the merchant couldn't get to it inside a week, becomes in his hands a sly and typical crucifixion of the proletariat at the hands of capitalists—so that the Russians (it is hoped) will lose sight of the fact that in this land the ordinary, everyday citizen can, for the most part, go whenever he wants to buy whatever he wants; not quite the situation in Russia.

He includes a dig at the American movie industry—for Russia is trying frantically, with indifferent success, to build up its own movie-making so as to rival ours. He went to see a recent cowboy picture, and found it, he says, to be just the same as a Bill Hart movie he saw twenty years ago—except, of course, that another actor had the leading role.

This comment ties in too closely with a "purge" being conducted by the Russian Communists in the fields of art and literature for it to be accidental. Official Russia is trying to break away from tradition in all forms of art; and that, of course, in the long run, means to turn all art (especially that which goes abroad) into vehicles for Communistic propaganda.

The tenor of the Poltoratsky article shows most clearly that Russia, at least under its present regime, will never be content until it has forced a showdown in this land between the principle of personal liberty and the ideology of Communism.

"DIRTY" NEW YORK

the trees and grass are blackened by soot."

In fact, says this Russian observer, New York looks to him like an old rolling mill enlarged to a colossal extent."

Now, a good deal of what Mr. Poltoratsky has to say is precisely what a great many Americans, including numerous Pennsylvanians, have been thinking all along.

Parts of New York are indisputably impressive. The spires of lower Manhattan, viewed from the Bay, form one of the outstanding sights of the world. The marble facades of Fifth and Park avenues, the gem-like spots like Trinity Churchyard and City Hall square, the stately palaces along Riverside Drive, the magnificent sweep visible from the top of the Empire State building, the sparkle of Times Square during its crowded moments—these are worth seeing.

But to go beyond such famous beauty-spots is to find dirt, squalor, fantastic congestion. It is, in fact, in the midst of the most appallingly hideous and repulsive of these forgotten areas, the "Dead End" part of the East Side, that the United Nations was talked into planning its future home.

New York talking of "dirt" in Philadelphia has been, in spectacular fashion, the pot calling the kettle black. New York and New Yorkers have been quick to see the moat in Philadelphia's eye—but not the beam in their own.

All this, however, has a much more serious side. Quite apart from the rivalries of various places for the United Nations headquarters, a good deal of the future of peace depends upon the question of Russia's attitude in the matter, and this again hinges upon what the Russian people believe, or can be led to believe, about the atmosphere in which the United Nations conducts its business.

The Poltoratsky description is propaganda—blatantly so; and unfriendly, mischievous propaganda at that. Like all skillful propaganda it is not so much a misstatement of facts as a misinterpretation and mis-emphasis of them.

Much of New York is dirty; that is true. But why should that be presented to the Russian people as the outstanding characteristic of the largest American city? A survey of the cost of back triple-time payments to 1938 reveals some shocking possibilities. The cost to the motor car industry would be more than twice the plant investment. Some employers undoubtedly would tell the unions to take the plant and run it. The fuzzy thinking of the courts does not absolve Congress from blame for writing a law into which judges could read fantastic meanings. It is now up to Congress to set a limit on such suits.

SEASON FOR COLDS

Government statisticians at Washington deserve applause for their presentation of figures concerning the perils of the common cold. They have said that, beginning at Christmastime, the incidence of common colds rises rapidly to its peak in February, when 25,000,000 Americans have colds.

That is something for each individual to contemplate. In addition to all the other possibilities, each individual is face to face with the threat—in government statistics, no less—that the odds are 1 to 5 that he will have a cold in February. Common cold, that is.

Government statisticians go even further. They contend that the common cold afflicts 94 per cent of the population each year. But now that it is well known when the season for colds begins, perhaps more persons will give attention to the business of avoiding them.

This apparently is the season for steering clear of the sneezing and sniffling public. It is also the season for getting sufficient rest and eating and drinking in moderation. Even after taking all these precautions, one might get a cold anyway, but at least one's conscience will be clear.

New York family spent $15,000 bringing out their daughter. Here a couple of toots on a motor horn achieves the same results.

Kerrs Arrange Party For Group on New Year's Eve

EDGELY, Jan. 4—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kerr entertained a number of their friends at a New Year's eve party.

Decorations were in keeping with the holiday season and refreshments served to: Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rousseau, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Rousseau, Mr. and daughter Leslie, Groveville, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leedom and son Earl, Bristol; Horace Prevost, Fallsington; Mr. and Mrs. William Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Stake and sons, Mr. and Mrs. George Willauer and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Livesey.

Today's Quiet Moment
By the Rev. Woodrow W. Kern,
S. T. M., Pastor,
Trevose Methodist Church

Teach us, O God, to serve Thee as Thou deservest, to heed Thee as Thou desirest, and to follow Thee as Thou beckonest, for by so doing we shall find grace and strength for every time of need. Fill our lives with the life-giving spirit, our hearts with Thy love, and our minds with pure thoughts in order that Thou mayest not only be pleased with us, but in order that Thou might use us as servants in the world wherein Thou hast placed us.

Enable us so to comprehend the meaning of the sacredness of time that we might use each moment aright. Teach us to recognize the value of our talents that we may invest them aright. Enable us so to use our gifts that each tone might vibrate aright because we have allowed our lives to be tuned by Thee. May Thou touch each broken chord and make it whole again. May others see Christ in us. Amen.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bailey, Bath Road, announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Samuel Brooks, son of Mrs. Rose Brooks, Yardley.

would prevent thousands of useless fires and save thousands of the 10,000 lives that are lost annually through fire.

Factory Insurance Association figures emphasize the danger of careless smoking in industrial plants and show the increase in losses from that cause from 1941 through 1945.

Starting with 1941 as a base, match-and-smoking losses were up in 1942, 273 per cent; in 1943 they were 12 per cent over 1942; in 1944, 48 per cent over 1943; and in 1945, 127 per cent over 1944.

Figures for the whole country, compiled by the National Fire Protection Association, show a decrease in 1945 as compared with 1944. With 1941 as a base, 1943 figures show increase of 49 per cent over 1941; 1944 is up 72 per cent over 1943; and 1945 shows a decrease of 11 per cent under 1944.

HIBERNIANS WIN FIFTH STRAIGHT GAME OF SEASON

Badenhausen Five Walloped To the Score of 44 to 25

AN AIR-TIGHT DEFENSE

"Hibs" Scored 11 Points In Each of The Four Quarters

The Hibernians won their fifth straight game of the Bristol Basketball League last night, wallop the Badenhausen quintet, 44-25, on the Rohm and Haas floor this season, the Falls Alumni basketeers won out over the Knights of Columbus five. Final score was 35-29.

The score belies the closeness of the game as with less than two minutes to play only two points separated the team. "Buddy" Kain had a chance to tie the score when awarded a double-shot foul but he missed on the first try and took the ball outside instead of shooting the second.

In the last fifty seconds of the game, "Gige" Chewing and Fred Briggle put in the deciding field goals. The Caseys had several shots at the baskets but missed.

High man for the winning team was Anderson who made 11 points. Kain was tops for the Knights with 9 points. The Caseys were poor shots from the foul mark, sinking in but seven out of 23 tries.

PASSANANTE FIVE DROPS ANOTHER GAME

The Passanante team dropped its fifth straight game of the Bristol Basketball League, losing to the St. Ann's cagers, 50-32, on the Maple Beach floor. The triumph broke a three-game losing streak of the "Saints."

The Purple and Gold passers had 21 field goals in the contest with Tony Palumbo registering six. Bill Petrick continued his high-scoring spree for the grocerymen by getting six fielders.

The game was close until the third period when the Saints managed to pull away and make the score lop-sided.
